

Middle East energy crisis: Who are the winners and losers?

As we enter the second month of the most significant energy crisis in recent history, the implications for investors and strategic players are becoming clearer and more far-reaching. Energy markets are now more interconnected than ever and the disruption to flows through the Strait of Hormuz is being felt well beyond the Middle East and its traditional energy offtakers.

We invite you to our upcoming event, where we'll explore how the crisis is reshaping global energy flows, which sectors and regions are emerging as winners and losers, and how investors and strategics can assess, measure, and manage their exposure in what is increasingly a prolonged and uncertain environment.

The session will conclude with drinks and light refreshments, offering an opportunity to connect with industry peers.

Tuesday, 21 April 2026 | 4pm - 6:30pm

Baringa, 8 Marina View, #12 - 07 Asia Square Tower 1, Singapore

RSVP: Blair.Chalmers@baringa.com

